Description

When Darwin's Origin of Species was published in 1859, it changed the world. Evolution bridged the gap between human and animal, calling into question our eternal or spiritual nature. But even Darwin admitted that “of all the differences between man and the lower animals, the moral sense or conscience is by far the most important.” Surely ethics was sacrosanct? In this class, we will explore a series of attempts at reconciling evolution and morality. After a look at the work of Charles Darwin and Herbert Spencer, who together brought the idea of evolution to popular consciousness, we will focus on the American pragmatists—the first philosophers to truly embrace evolutionary ideas. John Dewey, for example, argued that moral principles were merely a set of tools to be applied when the environment demanded it. Outside the university, Jane Addams—a philosopher and social activist—thought about how ethics would need to change following industrialization, urbanization, and mass immigration. In the last part of the class, we will read the writings of three recent philosophers inspired by biology and/or the pragmatists: Philip Kitcher's The Ethical Project, Joshua Greene's Moral Tribes, and Elizabeth Anderson’s The Imperative of Integration.

Your attendance grade is calculated by dividing attended classes by total classes. I automatically excuse one absence. Requests for additional excused absences due to medical emergencies, family emergencies, military orders, or court orders should be made to the Dean of Students Office (http://unccdso.uncc.edu/academic_accommodations), and not to me directly.

‘Participation’ means making comments and asking questions that reflect your having read and thought about the text under discussion. Your participation grade cannot be higher than your attendance grade. I often call on individual students following the small-group discussion or the summary write-up. You must bring a copy of the reading to each class, or you will not be able to effectively participate.

Each class, you must hand in a summary of the reading for that week, which must include (a) the overall claim or thesis of the reading and (b) a summary of the arguments or evidence the author gives to support this claim or thesis. (Sometimes I will ask you to do this for a debate between two authors; sometimes you will have to pick only one of several readings.) Your summary should be no more than two double-spaced pages (one-inch margins, 12-point font). In preparing your summaries, use only the assigned readings. Late summaries will not be accepted. Summaries submitted via e-mail will not be accepted. Absence from class is not a valid excuse for not turning in a summary unless you receive accommodation from the Dean of Students office (see above). The lowest summary grade will be dropped.

The topic(s) for Paper 1 will be circulated by e-mail on September 23. You must pick your own topic for Paper 2. I encourage you to talk to me about your paper before you submit it. I am happy to give feedback on outlines or introductory paragraphs. The two papers must be submitted by 7pm on the due date at the Moodle 2 site via turnitin.com. Papers that are too long or too short will be penalized a minimum of half a grade point. Late papers will be penalized half a grade point per day.

Your presentation will be on December 2 or 9. You will take 10-15 minutes to summarize the thesis and arguments of your second paper, and then respond to questions from the rest of the class for 5-10 minutes. It might be helpful to have your paper completely drafted by the time you present.

The use of cell phones, smart phones, or other mobile communication devices is disruptive, and is therefore prohibited during class except in emergencies. Students are permitted to use computers during class for note-taking and other class-related work only.

The standards and requirements set forth in this syllabus may be modified at any time by the course instructor. Notice of such changes will be by announcement in class or by e-mail notice.
University Policies

All students are required to read and abide by the Code of Student Academic Integrity. Violations of the Code of Student Academic Integrity, including plagiarism, will result in disciplinary action as provided in the Code. Definitions and examples of plagiarism are set forth in the Code. The Code is available from the Dean of Students Office or at http://legal.uncc.edu/policies/up-407.

As a condition of taking this course, all required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to Turnitin.com for the detection of plagiarism. All submitted papers will be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of such papers. No student papers will be submitted to Turnitin.com without a student’s written consent and permission. If a student does not provide such written consent and permission, the instructor may: (i) require a short reflection paper on research methodology; (ii) require a draft bibliography prior to submission of the final paper; or (iii) require the cover page and first cited page of each reference source to be photocopied and submitted with the final paper.

Students who miss classes, examinations or other assignments because of a religious practice or belief must provide reasonable notice of the dates of religious observances on which they will be absent by submitting a Request for Religious Accommodation Form (http://goo.gl/I1Ncv0) to the instructor prior to September 4, 2015.

Students in this course seeking accommodations to disabilities must first consult with the Office of Disability Services (https://ds.uncc.edu/) and follow the instructions of that office for obtaining accommodations.
